

PQE

English

POINT

QUOTE

EXPLAIN

The Question

Why do you think this poem is called 'Awakening'? PQE

The Question

Why do you think this poem is called 'Awakening'? PQE

I think this poem is called 'Awakening' because the girl mentioned in the poem has become aware of something.

The Question

Why do you think this poem is called 'Awakening'? PQE

A line from the poem that tells me she has become aware of something is "To-day she stands in front of the mirror, / Combing her shampoo-shining locks, / Wondering if Peter really meant it."

The Question

Why do you think this poem is called 'Awakening'? PQE

From this line I now know that the girl has become aware that a boy, Peter, has taken an interest in her. This realisation has caused her to focus more on her appearance. In the first half of the poem she hadn't noticed her "tousle-haired" appearance. However, now that Peter has complimented her she has begun to pay attention to how she looks. I think the poem is called 'Awakening' because she has become more aware of her appearance and the fact that she has caught someone's interest.

The Question

Why do you think this poem is called 'Awakening'? PQE

I think this poem is called 'Awakening' because the girl mentioned in the poem has become aware of something. A line from the poem that tells me she has become aware of something is "To-day she stands in front of the mirror, / Combing her shampoo-shining locks, / Wondering if Peter really meant it." From this line I now know that the girl has become aware that a boy, Peter, has taken an interest in her. This realisation has caused her to focus more on her appearance. In the first half of the poem she hadn't noticed her "tousle-haired" appearance. However, now that Peter has complimented her she has begun to pay attention to how she looks. I think the poem is called 'Awakening' because she has become more aware of her appearance and the fact that she has caught someone's attention, perhaps an admirer.